Substance Abuse Treatment, Prevention and Policy* is an open access, peer-reviewed online journal that encompasses all aspects of research concerning substance abuse, with a focus on policy issues.

The journal aims to reduce substance abuse by providing an environment for the exchange of ideas, new research, consensus papers, and critical reviews to bridge established fields such as legislation pertaining to substance abuse; correctional supervision of substance abusers; medical treatment and screening; mental health services; research; and evaluation of substance abuse programs.

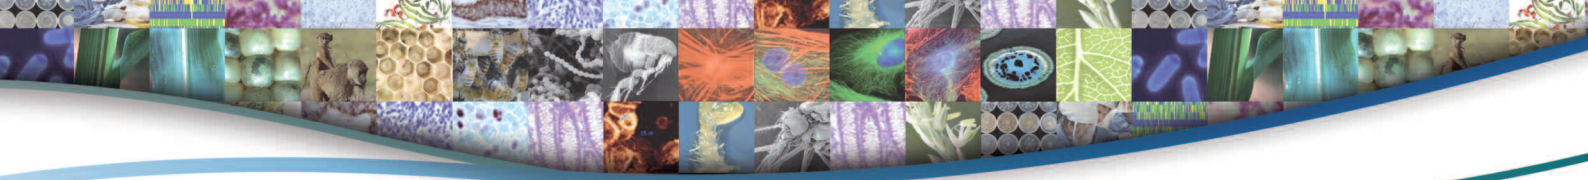

Substance Abuse Treatment, Prevention and Policy is tracked/indexed by PubMed, PubMed Central, Medline, Thomson Reuters (ISI), Scopus, PAIS International and Google Scholar.

The journal considers the following article types: research articles, reviews, commentaries, database articles, debate articles, hypotheses, methodology articles and short reports. For further details, see www.substanceabusepolicy.com/info/about/.
